

Preparing and Submitting Your Thesis
Erratum

Page	Amendments
P.2	Note 2 is revised to read as ‘The Faculty of Architecture has produced its own supplementary guidelines (documents AR1/501*). Research students in the Faculty should also consult the document which is available from the Faculty Office.’
P.7	The Regulations Governing the Format, Binding and Presentation of Theses for Higher Degrees by Research has been revised to allow thesis submitted for examination to be printed on one side or both sides of International A4 paper. Please refer to the Graduate School homepage for the revised Regulations (http://www.hku.hk/gradsch/web/student/thesis).
P.28	The 2 nd paragraph under ‘Requirement’ is revised to read as ‘Upon receipt of such soft copies, the thesis title, the abstract, table-of-contents, and citation information of each thesis will become accessible on the Libraries’ on-line database. Moreover, the digital full text of the theses collected will be stored in the University’s on-line database, “Hong Kong University Theses Online (HKUTO)” (http://sunzi1.lib.hku.hk/hkuto/index.jsp). Through this method, theses will be available for general access and consultation, unless restricted access has been granted (see below).’
P.29-31	The University Libraries has revised the format requirements of electronic theses. Please refer to the Libraries homepage for the updated information (http://etd.lib.hku.hk/format.html).

April 2009

Graduate School