This course is very useful in helping us understand how to be a good postgraduate student. I now realize the meaning of getting a postgraduate degree.

Data Ng 🍀

The inter-disciplinary perspective in operating a research project was very innovative. I never imagine that I can come up with so many new ideas when working with researchers in the medicine and physics field!

I am very happy and pleased that I decided to join the program. I highly recommend this program to any newcomers or postgraduates at any stage alike. It offered a great venue for students to collaborate, to get to know each other personally and academically. The support we get from our tutors and members during and after the courses is the most valuable experience I have had so far in HKU.

Thanks so much to the Graduate School for organizing this extremely wonderful and meaningful research skill learning course. The course offers research students a great platform to meet amazing people, communicate and share our own experiences. We together poured resources contributing to the research student community.

The course is loaded with systematic and serious instructional materials, but it also includes real-world discussions. I was pleased with learning how to improve the working efficiency and the time management skills. I would highly recommend this course for newly enrolled RPs who want to be more productive during his/her study at HKU.

Boyd Guan

I understand the importance of time management and now have a better understanding of my characteristics especially when I am in a group. I also met lots of excellent friends.

Dorothy Bai

From the course activities and lectures, I learnt how to collaborate in the research community. I value the feedback from others and more importantly our friendship. The course brings positive impact to my future.
